Did ever a woman experience true happiness until she bent over her rosy-cheeked, sleeping babe, tired of play and forgetful of toys. Never. True happiness for a childless woman is nature's most emphatic impossibility. The world teems with otherwise happy wedded couples that only need the link of a babe's divided caresses to unite them in mutual happiness through all eternity. Any woman may assure herself of happy wifehood, long life, love, and the great blessing of motherhood, who will take proper care of her womanly-self, and resort to the right remedy for weakness and disease of the delicate organs peculiar to her sex.

The best of all-known remedies for the special weaknesses and diseases from which women suffer is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly and only on the organs that bear the burdens of motherhood. It makes them strong and healthy. Taken during the expectant period it banishes the usual discomforts and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It insures a robust newcomer and an ample supply of natural nourishment. All good druggists sell it.

"It is my heart's desire," writes Mrs M. E. Jimpson, P. O. Box 31, Kinderhook, Columbia Co., N. Y., "to tell you what Dr. Pierce's medicine has done for me. Two years ago I was in a very bad state. I took nine bottles in all of your 'Favorite Prescription.' I had been married five years and had not had any children. I now have a young son one year old. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription effected a positive cure—words cannot express my gratitude for the relief from the great suffering I so long endured. I do not think I should be here to-day had it not been for Dr. Pierce's medicines."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate the liver, stomach and bowels.

Did any of my readers ever hear of Henrietta Maria? She seems to be a popular personage with small schoolboys, who bring back fragments of her dramatic autobiography every holiday for the edification of their families. I have inquired her origin from learned folklore authorities, but no one can tell me anything historically interesting about her, but an old family servant remembers well being taught the rhymes in a Somersetshire village in her infancy. Here they are, culled from the memory of three little imps:

Henrietta Maria
Sat on the fire.
The fire was too warm,
So she sat on the form.
The form wasn't sound,
So she sat on the ground.
The ground was too flat,
So she sat on the cat.
The cat was unkind,
So she sat on the blind (window).
The blind split in two,
So she tumbled right through.
She lay on the stones
And uttered great groans.
She rolled on the grass
Till the doctor did pass,
Who wriggled his head
And said she was dead.
And that was the end of Henrietta Maria, etc.

Her Trust In Signs.

An efficient but illiterate domestic servant was brought into serious but happily not fatal danger by her undue confidence in the inductive system of reasoning. This woman, being unable to read, had long been accustomed to discriminate between the different varieties of canned vegetables which her employer supplied not by the names printed on the labels, but by the pictures which they bore. This plan served well enough for kitchen needs, and it was only when she tried to combine it with her belief in the homeopathic doctrine of like cures like that trouble resulted. The woman suffered from rheumatism, and one rainy day, when her aches were especially severe, she came across a bottle labeled with a few written words and a print of skull and cross bones. Immediately she reasoned that the bottle contained a [illegible] aching bones, and [illegible] to take a heroic dose of [illegible]. Two doctors and a stomach pump saved the woman's life, but [illegible] of design in [illegible] in logic is gone forever.—New York Times.

MAKING FALSE EYES.

MANUFACTURE OF ARTIFICIAL OPTICS A DELICATE OPERATION.

Hundreds Turned Out Weekly—Price Varies From $5 to $30 and Occasionally $50—Ready Made Eyes Are Cheap, but Those Made to Order Come High.

There are many curious industries in this big city, and one that ranks preeminent in the peculiar line is a glass eye factory. It may seem strange that there should be a sufficient demand for glass eyes to support such a factory, especially as it employs a number of skilled workmen all the year round But when one learns some of the secrets of the trade all cause for wonder vanishes.

The prime reason for its existence is that a glass eye does not last more than a year, and very often not more than six months. Of course this necessitates the purchase of new optics every little while by afflicted people, and the number of people who use these eyes is surprisingly large, judged by the yearly production of the factory.

Five hundred eyes are turned out weekly, or about 26,000 in the year. Not all of these are sold, but this percentage is very small. The unsold ones are stock eyes—that is, they are used in the sale department of the factory or are sent to dealers throughout the country as samples.

The prices of glass eyes vary considerably. An ordinary ready made eye costs $5, while a made to order eye, with the pupil and cornea carefully colored, costs anywhere from $10 to $30, and occasionally as much as $50, but this latter price is a rare one. Poor people can only afford the ready made eye, and a large number of these are always kept in stock in different shades of blue, gray and brown.

Gray eyes are the most common, then comes blue, and then brown. Black eyes are a myth, and the factory has never had a call to make one. Ophthalmic hospitals are the largest consumers of the false eye. These buy in quantities, and naturally get the product at reduced rates. They buy the ordinary, ready made eyes, as they are used, for the most part, on poor people who are financially unable to be fastidious in the matter of exact color.

The most startling feature of the factory is the cabinet in which the stock eyes are kept. They are placed in large trays, sectioned off into tin squares, each square containing an eye. Blue eyes of many shapes and shades are in one tray, brown eyes of all kinds in another and gray eyes of many varieties in a third.

When a purchaser comes in he or she is fitted with an eye from one of these trays, and if the buyer is content with the ready made article a duplicate is furnished from the stock. If the made to order article is wanted, the sample is sent up to the workrooms with instructions covering the minor changes or improvements that can be made.

All of the regular customers have sample eyes in the factory. This enables them to send from a distance for a duplicate, and a new eye perfectly fitting and of the correct color, is shipped to them.

The reason that the eye wears out is that the action of the tear—which is acid—affects the enamel, roughing the edges and surface and causing an irritation of the eyelids

There has never been a time in the history of the world that artificial eyes did not exist. The ancient Egyptians 4,000 and 5,000 years ago, wore fal[se] eyes of gold and silver, and later of copper and ivory. It is on record that the patriotic Lutetians, when their country was in financial distress, generously presented their golden eyes to the public treasury. During the middle ages porcelain superseded metal in the making of artificial eyes, and a century ago the glass eye arrived. Now enamel is considered to be the best material for the work, and it is used to the exclusion of all others.

The process of making the eyes is easily described, but the work calls for much delicate and painstaking labor on the part of seven or eight skilled workmen. Formerly one man made an artificial eye from the crude to the finished state, but now the work is divided into a number of specialties, each man performing only a fraction of the whole task.

In its initial stage the eye is a long, slender stick of enamel, made of perfectly transparent and fusible flint glass. This is placed in a crucible and exposed to great heat. The globe maker places the enamel over a blowpipe supplied with wind, which is pumped by engine power into a large cylinder and stored under water pressure. Under the careful manipulation of the workman the enamel tube is formed into an oblong globe, just the size and shape of the human eye.

Next it passes into the coloring room. A piece of colored enamel is placed on the summit of the globe, and this is gently heated in a small flame and continuously rotated. Gradually this takes the form of the iris, and then a spot of darker enamel is added to represent the pupil. Then this is covered by a thick layer of crystal to form the cornea.

At this stage the eye is detached from the blowpipe and cooled, and then sent to the cutting room, from which it emerges shaped into a small hollow oval with irregular edges. The cutting is a difficult process, as a hair's breadth deviation in size will make a material difference in the fitting. The edges are fired and the eye allowed to cool slowly, this being the annealing or tempering process, which toughens the enamel and renders it less liable to break. The final work is the polishing, and then it is ready for the owner.

The coloring work is the most delicate of all, as sometimes eight and nine colors are worked in to give the correct shade.—New York Cor. Washington Post.

SPARAGUS KIDNEY PILLS KEEP ON CURING SICK PEOPLE.

Kidney Disease Has Been Robbed of the Horrors Heretofore Attached to it.

The Cry For Help is Quickly Answered by Dr. Hobbs' Grand Universal Specific.

Ask at W. Pinneger's of the Cures This Wonderful Discovery Has Performed.

There was a time—and not so very long ago—that when people were attacked with kidney disease, and became thoroughly convinced of it, a sense of mingled anguish and horrors quickly crept over them. They knew the perilous position it placed them in. Bright's disease, with all its horrors stared them in the face. Horrible visions came to them even in sleep of the dreadful ordeal they were to pass through, and many would have welcomed death at the start, once the diagnosis made it absolutely certain that they were afflicted with this disease.

How different to-day are their feelings, now that a handy and safe specific is obtainable at their nearest drugstore. No man or woman can be so total blind to facts as to for one moment believe that Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills will not cure them, after the public test that has been made in Reno for the past few weeks.

The testimonials and commendations that have appeared in the Reno papers up to the present are but a small part of those already received, and more are coming daily.

Never in our experience has there been such a spontaneous outporing of praise as has greeted Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills.

What Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills Are Designed And Guaranteed To Do.

They soothe, heal and cure any inflammation of the bladder and kidneys.

They cure backache.

They cause the kidneys to filter out of the blood all poisons and impurities, whether made in the system or taken in from the outside.

They render sluggish kidneys active.

They cause the kidneys to cast out the poison of rheumatism (uric acid), the disease germs of malaria and the grippe.

They cause the kidneys to keep the blood pure and clean and thus prevent neuralgia, headache, dizziness, nervous dyspepsia, skin diseases, eruptions, scales tetters and rashes.

They cause the kidneys to work steadily and regularly.

They dissolve and cast out brickdust and phosphate deposits and dissolve gravel and calculi in both the kidneys and bladder.

They cure Bright's disease.

They cause the kidneys to rapidly rid the system of the poisons of alchohol and tobacco.

They yield a clear mind, sweet sleep and steady nerves, active bodies, brimful of the zest and happiness of living, bright eyes and rosy cheeks, because they keep the blood free from poisons and impurities that would otherwise clog and irritate it.

Healthy kidneys make pure blood.

Pure blood makes perfect health.

Perfect health makes life worth living.

Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills do this and do it all the time.

The Little Boy and the Stars.

One day he said to his mother, "Mamma, what are the stars?"

"They are a flock of golden sheep that God drives forth at night to feed in his pasture in the sky."

"H'm!" said the little boy, turning to his father. "Papa, what are the stars?"

"They are redhot nails that hold the sky fast to the bottom of God's throne and keep it from crashing down upon our heads."

"H'm!" said the little boy, turning to his mother's sister. "Auntie, what are the stars?"

"The sky is the Virgin's pincushion, and the stars are the heads of the pins which she"—

"H'm!" said the little boy, turning to his father's brother. "Uncle, what are the stars?"

"They are the eyes of truant boy angels, peeping through holes in the big blue tent that incloses what they call a circus and we call the planetary system."

"H'm!" said the little boy, turning to the old woman who told him so many wonderful stories of wonderful things during the blue midsummer nights. "Nurse, what are the stars?"

"Well," answered the old woman, "some say that the stars are the tears of the dead, which turn into gold and glow. But I say"—

"Yes?" said the little boy eagerly.

"I say that only God knows."

The little boy looked disappointed. Then he raised his head and gazed steadily upward.

"I suppose," he said, after a silence, "that I shall never know what the stars really are."

"Not until you go among them. And may the hour of your going be late, my darling," said the old woman.—Chap Book.

WILL THE SENATE INVESTIGATE?

It is openly charged that the Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee took advantage of their position to increase their bank accounts by favoring the sugar trust. They arranged the sugar schedule, it is charged, just as the trust desired it, and invested in trust stock. When the bill was reported to the Senate the stock advanced three or four dollars a share and they unloaded, realizing a handsome profit on the investment. The stock, which had previously been selling at a premium of thirteen or fourteen dollars a share, advanced three or four dollars per share in consequence of the favorable report of the Finance Committee.

Senator Tillman of South Carolina has introduced a resolution for the appointment of a special Committee of five Senators to inquire into the reports that Senators had speculated in sugar stocks and to ascertain if advance information regarding the sugar schedule had been furnished New York speculators, and, also, to continue the investigation of 1894.

In support of this resolution Senator Tillman said the present bill was framed in the rooms of the Arlington Hotel, which is in close communication by telegraph and telephone with the magnates of the sugar trust. He read extracts from several papers, which stated that the sugar schedule was prepared by the trust and that Senator Smith of New Jersey had been speculating in sugar stock Tillman said the Washington correspondents of these papers should be shown to be liars or the Senators shown to be corrupt and turned out of the Senate.

What will the Senate do with this resolution? Will a committee be appointed to make an investigation or will the matter be dropped? The Supreme Court has decided that a Senate committee has authority under the law to compel witnesses to answer questions pertinent to the subject which they may be investigating, and it is not always that clerks and others can be purchased to destroy the stenographer's notes, as in the case of Havemeyer, the millionaire magnate of the sugar trust

It is certain that the Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee kept the schedules which they had prepared in considering the tariff bill, not only from the public but from the other members of the Finance Committee. That this was done for a purpose there is no doubt. Was that purpose to give the members in the secret opportunity to make money for themselves at the expense of the public by enhancing the price of sugar stock? That the stock did advance in price there is no doubt, and that the people are paying for that advance there is also no doubt in the minds of grocers and consumers who have purchased sugar within the last month.

NOT AS ENTHUSIASTIC AS HE WAS

John Wannamaker, a strict Republican partisan and a leading light in that political party, and who stumped the State of Pennsylvania for McKinley, is not as enthusiastic over the present condition as he was over the outlook for prosperity during the Presidential canvass He says that the general good times that were to follow McKinley's election in November 1896, do not materialize and a full half year has gone by Thus far no noticeable improvement of the wretched times is manifest He believed that unless the depression in business is changed to a better condition the tide will set in strongly against the Republican party He says that America need not fear the Turk or Cuban insurrectionists or the grasping British, but the patient suffering people of this country, who betrayed and disheartened, will rise in revolt willing and ready to try any new system that will afford them a possible relief.

LIEUTENANT PEARY has organized another expedition to try and reach the North Pole. He believes that he will be better prepared this time, having profitted by his former experience, to make the journey. From a scientific point of view, no doubt the finding of the North Pole would be a great event, but just what particular advantage it would be to ordinary people, is as yet considerably in doubt. The majority of the earth's inhabitants are more interested in rustling for something to eat, than in what's going on or likely to occur at the North Pole consequently there will not be any great interest manifested in Lieutenant Peary's wild scheme.

The Turkish Porte has presented a reply to the collective note of the powers regarding the settlement of peace. The Constantinople correspondent of the Daily Mail says that the reply consents to the negotiation of terms of peace with the representatives of the powers, providing the Greek Commanders first sign the armistice, and the treaty of peace be signed by the Turkish and Hellenic plenipotentiaries in Thessaly. The question of giving up Thessaly to Greece is rapidly becoming more serious in Constantinople. The ministers and officials of all classes oppose the withdrawal of Turkish troops. Every imaginable influence is being brought to bear on the Sultan.

Governor Budd has postponed his decision in the Durrant and Worden cases until Wednesday.

CALLING FOR TROOPS.

Troublesome Indians in Southern Lincoln.

Governor Sadler has been requested by Sheriff Freudenthal of Lincoln county to have troops in readiness to send to El Dorado Canyon and the Los Vegas ranch in Southern Lincoln, where the Indians have been murdering white people. The settlers are very much alarmed and fear a general uprising of the Indians, The Governor is willing to have the State militia in readiness, and, of course, will order them to the front if necessary, and in fact the troops are eager for the fray, but the trouble is there are no funds available to pay them.

Hon. J. Poujade, who is familiar with the country in Southern Lincoln, has volunteered his services and is willing to take charge of a command to go down on the Colorado to fight the Indians. The National Guard, if called out, will have to go by rail on the Carson & Colorado Railroad to Soda Springs in Esmeralda county, thence across the country to Southern Lincoln, though some say the quickest way to get to El Dorado Canyon and Los Vegas Valley is through California and up the Colorado river. The country is remote from railroads and sparsely settled.

Discovery of a Large Gold Ledge Near Elko.

About eight weeks ago, J. V. Brooks, the mineralogist, while on his way to Gold Creek on a tour of inspection of that field, was sitting on the porch of the Depot Hotel, conversing with Judge J. S. Mayhugh, upon the mineral resources of this State. During the conversation, Professor Brooks had his eyes upon a rolling, hill, rising almost to a mountain, and not two miles to the south from where they were sitting. The Professor told Judge Mayhugh that the above mentioned spot looked as if mineral existed there, and asked if said mountain, or near abouts, had ever been prospected. The answer he received was that prospecting for coal was all the work accomplished there.

Mr. Brooks then told the Judge to visit the spot at his earliest convenience, and to take pieces from the croppings for assay, and as soon as he returned from Gold Creek he would make a thorough examination. "I have faith in that mountain," said Prof Brooks, "and I have no doubt I will discover a ledge of mineral bearing rock in that mountain."

Judge Mayhugh and his daughter, Stella, and John Mayhugh, Jr, went to the mountain several weeks ago, broke off pieces of the croppings—about thirty pieces in all—pulverized the same, mixed them well, and sent them to one of the best assayers in the country The returns arrived April 28 1897, with the following result: Gold 2 ounces; silver, 4 ounces, value $42 per ton.—Free Press

A Reno Boy's Progress

Will H. McLaughlin and mother will arrive this morning from San Francisco on a visit to Reno relatives and friends. Will is in the employ of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company, being located on their San Francisco wharf. He entered the service of the company a year ago as an office boy and gave such good satisfaction that he was soon promoted to the position of freight clerk, and a short time ago was again promoted to receiving clerk which place he now holds

Each year the company gives those employes a vacation, and Will is taking advantage of his short lay off to visit his old friends Will was a pupil of the Nevada State University and its source of attending the commencement exercises He has made use of his opportunities and is now one of the most popular and efficient clerks of the company with which he is connected.

Your Boy Won't Live a Month

So Mr. Gilman Brown, of 34 Mill St., South Gardner, Mass., was told by the doctors. His son had Lung trouble, following Typhoid Malaria, and he spent three hundred and seventy-five dollars with doctors, who finally gave him up, saying: "Your boy won't live a month." He tried Dr. King's New Discovery and a few bottles restored him to health and enabled him to go to work a perfectly well man. He says he owes his present good health to the use of Dr. King's New Discovery, and knows it to be the best in the world for Lung trouble. Trial Bottles Free at S J Hodgkinson's Drug Store

Olinghouse Canyon Mines

The Dispatch gives a detailed report of the work going on in the Olinghouse Canyon Mining District Among other locators Charles Richardson and George Avery of this place have located a mine and called it the Reno They have a good prospect and are greatly encouraged.

Quite a settlement is growing up and the camp has been named McClanesburg. Locations are being made all over the district, and there seems to be great confidence that the summer will develop a mining camp that will astonish the coast.

The Truth Well Told.

The statements of the citizens of Reno and neighboring towns printed in the JOURNAL and Gazette concerning the liniment Trib during the past year constitute a most remarkable showing.

They come from old and young, from athletes and from cripples, from the weak and the strong, from horsemen and wheelmen. They are from truthful, experienced and well-known men and women, whose opinions could not be purchased. The Trib Company has, ready for the inspection of everybody, the original written testimony of these people. They are such people as Mrs. L. M. Eckbush, Officer R. C. Leeper, A. C Helmold, E. D Lachman, Manuel Simas, T. E. De La Matyr, Dr. Darling and numerous others in this city.

Equally well known and responsible people in Virginia City and other towns testify to the value of Trib. Among them are at least two leading physicians who, through a peculiar prejudice against advertising, do not wish their names printed, who prescribe Trib in certain cases in which a liniment mild in action yet strong in effect is required.

The evidence shows that Trib is a good liniment, that it fulfills all its promises, and that it does all that is claimed for it, and much more. It is obtaining a strong hold on the favor of the people of Reno.

Why Not Invite the President to Visit Nevada.

In view of the fact that President McKinley has about decided to visit Salt Lake during the semi-centennial celebration, also the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco has invited him to extend his visit to that city why would it not be a good idea to invite him to lay over here for a day? If he could be persuaded to do this and visit Carson and the Capitol, arrangements could be made so that the President would have an opportunity of not only receiving an object lesson that would be of value to him, but could see better than anyone can tell him the effect of the demonetization of silver on the mining as well as every other interest in the State

Let the Governor and the State officers, also leading men in the State send an invitation, and if Mr. McKinley visits the coast he may conclude to give Nevada a day or two of his time.

Announcement.

James P. Hixson, representing the well known fine merchant tailoring establishment of J. Edlin, 617 Market street, San Francisco, under Palace Hotel, has arrived and will remain a few days at the Arcade Hotel where he has on exhibition a full line of sample goods for gentlemen's wear, suitable for the coming and present season Those wishing first-class custom made clothing will do well to give him a call. He is the only scientific, practical cutter who has taken diplomas in the principal cities in the East for correct measuring, skillful labor and correct fit, who is soliciting orders. There are a great many adventurers who are not tailors or cutters, who do not represent a responsible house, who cannot take a correct measure, subjecting the public to great annoyance and loss. Hoping the public will encourage a scientific man to do their work Mr. Hixson is recommended.

Quality

in canned goods is a leading feature of the successful grocery store. The buyer must depend upon the label to a great extent, and reliability is a faithful guide. In every line of groceries that we handle quality and reliability are more to us than cost. Giving better goods than can be obtained elsewhere for the same money brings added trade that more than offsets shaded profits.

Governor Sadler arrived yesterday morning from the eastern part of the State looking somewhat thinner than is his usual wont. He caught a slight cold at the military ball given by the University Cadets and the next day left for Elko, where he was taken sick and confined to the house. He has a robust constitution, however, and though yet troubled with torpidity of the liver, he hopes to be as robust as ever in a few days.

State Senator Comins of White Pine is seriously ill. He has been confined to his bed for some time, and at last accounts was no better. A letter from Mr. Comins' son-in-law, dated May 25th, received by Secretary of State Howell, says Mr. Comins has kidney trouble and suffers excruciating pain when not under the influence of opiates. Later reports are to the effect that his recovery is doubtful.

AT THE UNIVERSITY.

FIRST DAY OF COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

A Number of Interesting Theses Read on Various Subjects—Interesting Features.

A brilliant, sunny day greeted the first exercises of the University commencement week. Promptly at the hour set the Seniors marched over to the Gymnasium. The girls wore the proverbial students cap and gown; the boys, dress suits and black silk hats. A somewhat scanty audience soon assembled. We presume that more people would have been present were it not for the fact that so many were out last night until a late hour.

The first of the series of theses was an able paper by George Russell Bliss on "The Determination of Free Potassium Cyanide in Working Solutions." In a few clear bold paragraphs he set forth the disadvantages of various methods of determination with the advantages of the iodide of potassium method. In response to questions by Dr. Stubbs, Mr. Bliss informed the audience that the results described were obtained by his own experiments in the laboratory. The paper was clear, forcible and exceedingly well delivered.

The next theses was a paper by Miss Jessie Gertrude Bonham, entitled the "Primitive Germans." Although this subject might well be thought dry or uninteresting to the average reader, the material presented in this essay was so well arranged and selected that all who heard it showed by their quiet attention that they were deeply interested. Those who failed to hear this paper missed an intellectual treat. The easy self-possessed manner of the speaker added much to the pleasure of the listeners. In response to questions by members of the faculty Miss Bonham presented more points of deep interest and value.

Next in order came a theses by Miss Alice Emily Edmunds, entitled "Is There An Absolute Standard Of Right And Wrong?" Taking up the various standards of right and wrong, the speaker showed that morality is by no means a slavish obedience to law. Next considering up the intuitive knowledge of right and wrong she showed that conscience itself is unreliable and varying. Then, after presenting the conflicting claims of the many schools of philosophy and ethics, she deduced the conclusion that the only standard is man's own changing and developing ideal. The argumentative form of this essay and the abstract nature of its subject formed a strong contrast to the historical and technical theses formerly presented. Throughout the paper, the line of argument was clearly marked and the treatment was unbiased and philosophic. In the arrangement much rhetorical skill was shown, together with careful study and powerful thought.

Following this able paper came one by Miss Amy Gertrude Edmunds entitled "The Next World As Conceived by the Representative Poets From Homer to Milton." In an easy conversational manner, this paper set forth the curious and beautiful ideas of the ancient poets and showed the points of likeness and difference between them and the nobler and not less imaginative conceptions of Christian poets. In few and well chosen words, the speaker painted clear pictures of the curious and wonderful places and shapes told of by the poets mentioned. This paper showed clearly the influence of the ancient poets on the later ones, Dante and Milton. It was a thoughtful essay and very well rendered.

Following this came a thesis of especial interest to Nevada people. It was entitled "The Treatment of Low Grade Cupriferous Silver Ores." Like the other technical essays, the basis of this paper was actual work—patient experimental work in the laboratory. If we could spare the required space we would gladly print the entire essay, for we feel that the process outlined and the results obtained would be of much practical value in solving the problem of profitably treating our low grade ores.

Young ladies, nowadays, are much interested in athletics. The title of Miss Victoria Godfroy's essay, "The Revival of the Olympic Games," was, therefore, a matter of no surprise. In this essay a brief outline of the origin of the ancient games followed by a picturesque description of the games and their surroundings. The decay of these picturesque sports was then outlined Next came the idea of the modern revival of the ancient games. The value of such a revival was ably set forth. The entire essay was spirited and bright, showing careful thought and a broad mental outlook. Careful questioning by Prof. Samuel Unsworth developed the idea that there is nothing in true Christianity opposed to healthy athletic games and sports.

Next in order came another technical paper by Edmund D. Lachman entitled "The Separation and Estimation of Arsenic and Antimony." Months of hard work and careful thought had preceded the writing of this thesis. Mr. Lachman becoming dissatisfied with the methods before in use tried scores of experiments leading toward more perfect methods. These he at last obtained. Much credit is due to Mr. Lachman for the patient and persevering thought which he bestowed upon the invention of the more useful and perfect process. The language throughout the paper was clear and vigorous, the speaker's manner bright and animated. Clever questioning by Prof. Cowgill placed the true value and originality of Mr. Lachman's work in a yet stronger light.

At 2 o'clock, after the noon recess the reading of the theses was resumed. First came Harry Archie Start with his thesis "Hannibal." He introduced his subject by a reference to the value of great lives of history as models toward which we all may strive. In eloquent and stirring words he pictured the principal events in the life of the great Carthaginian general. The style united clearness and vigor with figurative beauty, while the manner of the speaker was all that could be desired.

Next in order came an essay by Miss May Tredway. The title was "Some of Shakespeare's Villains." In this powerful paper the worst villains in all literature, the creations of the greatest of all dramatists, were presented and compared in all their baseness. Miss Tredway's voice was clear and ringing, her manner easy, but serious and dignified. Her essay showed a thorough understanding and appreciation of Shakespeare's difficult plays, together with an unusual insight into human life and character.

Following this strong essay came Robert Mauro Brambila's thesis, "The Ratio of Fat to Casein in Milk and its Effect in Cheese Manufacture." This was a technical paper belonging, as the title would indicate, to the subject of agricultural chemistry. For sometime past Mr. Brambila has been completing and comparing the results of milk analyses made at our various experiment stations. He has also performed many original experiments. From his own experiments and the work of others Mr. Brambilla has reached several interesting conclusions which space will not permit us to present here. This paper showed thorough knowledge of the subject and deep study.

The next thesis was a valuable paper by Master Albert Feeney on "The Influence of Oxidizing Agentsin Cyanide Leaching." This paper consisted of a concise and scientific account of experiments performed by Mr. Feeney at the University. Mr. Feeney's manner was unusually direct and forcible. His essay, embodying the results of original experiments, is a valuable addition to the literature on the Cyanide process.

Following this came a paper by Jerome Blanchard Higgins on "Losses in Cupellation." After outlining briefly the process of cupellation, he set forth the principal causes of loss, showing that, contrary to the general idea, the principal cause of loss is not the volitilization of the silver, but its absorption by the cupel. The essay showed much skill in writing and careful, practical study of the difficult subject treated.

After this, Dr. Stubbs read an abstract of an essay on "The Precipitation of Gold," by John Rollin Magill, who was unavoidably absent.

Last of all on, the program was an essay on "The Romantic Element in Shakespeare's Plays," by Katherine Riegelhuth. The central idea of this paper was a tracing of the various threads of romance in Shakespeare's plays. The essay showed thorough sympathy and appreciation of Shakespeare's romantic characters. The treatment was delightfully easy and pleasant. The true place of ghosts, goblins and witches in the works of the great dramatist is plainly shown. This was one of the brightest and most interesting papers which the JOURNAL reporter has enjoyed for some years.

As a whole the essays were highly creditable as exhibitions of the advanced grade of work done at the Nevada State University.

THE NORMAL CLASS.

The Exercises at the University Last Evening.

The exercises of Normal Class Day were opened last evening with a selection by the Cadet Band. For the time the band has been organized the music rendered was excellent, reflecting great credit on their leader, Mr. Gabriel Hoskins.

Mr. Hugh Crutcher followed in an eloquent address. He spoke in an easy and polished manner. A duet by Miss Haines and Miss Trembath was the third number on the program and a well-written class prophecy by Miss Lillian Virgin was one of the gems of the evening. Miss Louise Rinckel gave a splendid piano solo, and this was followed by an oration, "Self Reliance," by Miss Alice Trembath, which was pointed and delivered in a masterly style. Miss Pearl Hart, in a sweet voice and charming manner, gave a vocal solo. A paper well written and very interesting on "Child Study" was presented by Miss Martha Gould. "Humorous Trifles," by Miss Lucinda Harper created considerable merriment. Miss Twombly recited a class poem composed by the talented class President. The program closed with a selection by the band, and the floor was cleared and the young folks enjoyed a couple of hours dancing. On the whole the Normal Class Day exercises formed one of the pleasantest occasions of the present school year.

Boiled Potatoes.

Pare potatoes with a sharp vegetable knife, just as thin as possible, for that part of the tuber lying close to the skin is richest in mineral salts, and put each potato as peeled into a pan of cold water to prevent discoloration. Have ready meanwhile a kettle of boiling water, and when the peeling process is complete take the potatoes from the cold water, and, covering them with boiling salted water, set them on the range, covered, to boil. Twenty minutes will usually suffice, but to test them use a skewer or fork, and when they can be pierced easily remove at once from the fire, pour off all the water and set them on the back of the range, uncovered, to steam dry, assisting that process occasionally by a slight shaking of the kettle.

If one asks the reason why potatoes should always be cooked in boiling water, try the following experiment for proof: Take two cups, in each of which has been put a teaspoonful of ordinary starch. Pour over one a quarter of a cupful of boiling water and over the other the same quantity of cold water and observe the result. The one over which the boiling water was poured stays in shape, a compact mass, while the one with the cold water dissolves into a soft paste. The potato is largely composed of starch, and from this trial any one may draw his own conclusions. If you wish a pulpy, watery potato, use cold water; but if a dry, mealy, snowy ball that would delight the heart of Epicurus himself, always use boiling water.—New York Commercial.

Hakluyt's Zeal.

The great work of Hakluyt is the "Principal Navigations," in three folio volumes, a monument of useful labor. Nothing could stop or daunt him when there was a chance of obtaining new information. He rode 200 miles to have an interview with the last survivor of Master Hore's expedition to America in ... Hakluyt ... numerous journals and ... from destruction and the ... rescued from oblivion. His work gave a stimulus to colonial and to maritime enterprise, and it inspired our literature. Shakespeare owed much to Hakluyt's "Principal Navigations." Milton owed much more. As the years passed on Richard Hakluyt, in his own ... language, continued "to wade still further and further in the sweet study of the historie of cosmographie," ... and ... achieved his great task, which was in his own words, "to incorporate into one body the torn and scattered limbs of our ancient and late navigations by sea." He declared geography and chronology to be the sun and moon, the right eye and the left of all history.—Geographical Journal.
